The concept of comparison has helped break down a lot of complex logic into simple terms. The ngIf Directive + else According to the Angular API, the ngIf directive is a structural directive that conditionally includes a template based on the value of an expression coerced to Boolean. This is where the else clause comes into an if statement. Before You Start To be able to follow through in this article's demonstration you should have: A integrated development environment like VS Code Node version 11.0 installed on your machine Node Package Manager version 6.7 (usually ships with Node installation) Angular CLI version 9.0 The latest version of Angular (version 9) // run the command in a terminal ng version Confirm that you are using version 9, and update if you are not. Angular allows you to save variables locally and access them with your ngIf directive. Happy coding! Open up your ng canvas project you already unzipped in VS Code, and inside your src directory you will find an app folder. The ngIf directive syntax looks like this: Content to render when condition is true. An extended version of this would look like this: Content to render when condition is true. Finally, you can add an outcome for when your conditions were not met. Then, we have a div tag that contains the greetings. Conditionals in Angular 9 For every comparison, there is a condition e²²²A like, if today is Friday, then display "Happy Friday!" Just like most programming languages, Angular has directives like if, for and switch for handling comparisons. It can be used in all types of use cases and esle eht gnidd²A . kcilc uoy sa eslaf ro eurt rehtie snrut hcihw neve nOelggot a ot ti dengissa dna nottub a detaerc tsrif ew .ereH >p/p< >p/p< >rh< >vid/< >p/p< >2h/2h< >"nOelggot!"= flgn* vid< >1h/< >nottub/"nOelggot!"= nOelggot!"=kcilc(nottub< >1h2h/snosirapmoc-ppa/snosirapmoc-ppa< >2h< >vid/< >1h/< >ppa flgn ot emocleW >1h< >"retnec.ngila-txet" =elyts vidsrekcinSon# etalpmet-gn< >vid/etalocohc tel;srekcinSon esle;etalocohc.skcanS!"= flgn vid< >p/p< >p/p< >rh< >etalpmet-gn/kcolBesle# etalpmet-gn< >vid/< >p/p< >2h/2h< >"kcolBesle esle;nOelggot!"= flgn* vid< >1h/< >nottub/"nOelggot!"= nOelggot!"=kcilc(nottub< >1h
